

ARCHBISHOP TO BE DOMINICAN PRESIDENT

Eladio Victoria Will Resign Because He Can't Stop the Present Revolution.

AMERICAN DIPLOMACY WINS

Minister Warren and General McIntyre Obtained Consent of Islanders to Choice of Adolfo Nuelo.

[By Cable to The Tribune.] Santo Domingo, Nov. 27.—President Taft and the administration are about to realize one of their greatest diplomatic triumphs in the relations of the United States with the countries of Latin America. The Dominican Congress has been convened in special session to elect a President of Santo Domingo to succeed President Eladio Victoria, who has decided to relinquish his office because of his inability to suppress the insurrection that has had the republic in turmoil for months. In choosing his successor the Congress, it is said upon authority, will create a situation that has never existed in the history of America. They will elect to the Presidency a high official of the Church, Adolfo Nuelo, Archbishop of Santo Domingo and Primate of America.

This unprecedented action of placing a high dignitary of the Church in charge of the affairs of an independent nation has been well thought out by the leading members of the government and of the opposition, and it has been decided that it is the only solution of the chaotic political conditions that have long existed here. No other person in the country has the confidence of the opposing factions to the degree that Archbishop Nuelo has, and General Horacio Vasquez, former president of Santo Domingo, who has been leading the uprising against the Victoria government, has consented to an armistice, which will become a permanent cessation of hostilities as soon as the new President takes the reins of government. The resignation of President Victoria, who also has consented to the election of the Archbishop, will become effective as soon as Congress elects his successor, which it is expected will be in a day or two.

There is absolutely no religious significance in the election of the new President, though that fact makes it none the less of world-wide interest. The selection of Archbishop Nuelo is a tribute to the personality of the man, who is a patriotic Dominican who has been always a leading and important factor in the betterment of the country, and it cannot be said that the move is in any way a tribute to the Church or a step toward the subservience of the State to the Church. Archbishop Nuelo has received a cable dispatch from Cardinal Merry del Val, Secretary of State at the Vatican, giving him the permission of His Holiness Pope Pius to accept his new charge as chief of state. This step was arranged with the American Ambassador at Rome by General Frank McIntyre, chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs at Washington, and William T. S. Doyle, head of the division of Latin-American Affairs of the American Department of State, who have been here as a commission to straighten out the tangled affairs of this republic.

The whole peace plans, which promise to destroy forever the militarism of this gunpowder republic, were the result of the diplomatic efforts of the Peace Commissioners and W. W. Russell, the American Minister, who was the first to suggest the Archbishop as the compromise candidate for the Presidency.

The Archbishop was persuaded to accept the office after much effort. He has always been consulted in times of stress and always has shown a high quality of patriotism and executive ability. These qualities, added to the general confidence in his integrity and fairness, brought about his selection. He has never been in politics in the sense that he tried to dictate the policy of the government or sought favors, but has always had a strong influence against the shedding of blood. He has been an influence for peace, and he will be able to exercise that influence to a greater degree as head of the nation and with a civil government such as he will create. Archbishop Nuelo has been unalterably opposed to political prosecutions.

It required a high order of diplomacy on the part of Minister Russell, General McIntyre and Mr. Doyle to bring about the present arrangement. When the commissioners came here they found the country torn by internal strife, with no hope of early improvement in the political situation. Neither side was able to conquer. Minister Russell suggested the Archbishop as the medium for the restoration of peace. General Vasquez consented to call off his followers if his grace could be persuaded to accept the charge. The other great benefit that must be returned to the credit of the United States in Santo Domingo and in all Latin America is the proof that there was no thought of aggrandizement or selfish motives in rescuing the Dominicans from themselves.

TROUBLE IN SANTO DOMINGO

Desiderio Arias Takes Town of Monte Christi After Day's Fighting.

[From The Tribune Bureau.] Washington, Nov. 27.—Hostilities on the part of a certain element of rebels in Santo Domingo have broken out again, notwithstanding the indications that the two American commissioners, Brigadier-General Frank McIntyre and William T. S. Doyle, have been successful in their mission to restore peace and re-establish the customs houses along the Haytian frontier.

It was reported to the Navy Department to-day by the commander of the Nashville that there was continuous fighting in the town of Monte Christi all day Monday, and that Desiderio Arias is now in possession of the place. Foreigners escaped harm during the engagement according to the dispatch, and terms of peace was arranged. Arias is said to be the only remaining irreconcilable revolutionary leader now causing any trouble, and it is believed here that his revolt will not become very extensive.

DR. R. M. ANDERSON BACK

Explorer, Who Was with Stefansson Expedition, Returns.

Dr. Rudolph Martin Anderson arrived in this city yesterday from Alaska and met Vilhjalmur Stefansson for the first time since they separated at Baile Island, in March, when Stefansson left on the Revenue cutter Bear, for San Francisco, and Anderson and a few Eskimoes went back ninety miles to the headquarters at Laramieville to get the store of collections which had been gathered during their four-year sojourn in the Arctic.

Dr. Anderson said he spent the greater part of April and May at this work and also visited Baile Island, where he hoped to find the Belvedere, a whaler. He had made three trips, with his Eskimoes and dog sledges, when the Belvedere put in at Baile Island.

Dr. Anderson went aboard with his collection of specimens, and on November 1 arrived in San Francisco. The explorer said yesterday he had been misquoted regarding the religion of the "white" Eskimoes.

"In an interview in San Francisco," he said, "I maintained that the Eskimoes who show mixtures of blond hair, blue eyes and other European features—knew nothing of the Christian religion. I was quoted as saying that he was without a religion, which would be an absurd statement from an ethnological standpoint.

TO PLAY WOLSEY IN N. Y.

Sir Herbert Tree Coming Hither to Arrange for Production.

[By Cable to The Tribune.] London, Nov. 27.—Sir Herbert Tree is leaving Liverpool on Saturday for New York on the Caronia to pay what he calls a flying diplomatic visit, returning on the Mauretania on December 17. Sir Herbert is not playing in his present successful production of "Drake" at His Majesty's Theatre, and is seizing the opportunity, therefore, to visit the Continental and American theatres, taking his first holiday in thirty-five years.

GODOWSKY'S FIRST RECITAL

A Display of Great Technical Brilliance.

For a reason unexplained and probably better understood by himself than anybody else, M. Godowsky changed about one-half of the programme which he had announced for his first pianoforte recital in Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon. If he foresaw how large a proportion of his audience would be immature students of the pianoforte he unquestionably followed the course of wisdom in omitting Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 10, with which he originally proposed to begin; for it is doubtful if it would have impressed his many youthful hearers very deeply. Their appreciation of purely technical feats was more aptly to be counted upon, and those which he performed in his Chopin selections—all of the externally glistening rather than the poetical order—won enthusiastic recognition, and deserved it. More scintillant scales and passages in thirds have seldom been tossed into the spaces of a concert room, he apparently shook out of his carelessness a few stanzas yesterday. But it was in this feature only that he excelled, for warmth of feeling was seldom manifest and depth of poetical conception and loveliness of tone not at all. He showed himself as the marvelous technician who challenges the world's amazement long ago but delivered a small message of artistic loveliness.

MANY HEAR "TROVATORE"

Verdi's Opera Well Sung at the Metropolitan.

Verdi's "Trovatore" was last night's opera at the Metropolitan, and the old warhorse brought forth a large audience. It always does. To fill the house at little expense to itself the management has but to announce that the "Anvil Chorus," "Di Quella Pira" and the "Miserere" will be sung. Even a great soprano or tenor can be dispensed with. It is the triumph of the barrel organ.

For melody the old work has, melody in an abundance never surpassed by its creator, and if the story is obscure, the characters of the opera operate, the musical devices at times obvious, the melody itself is not the result of artifice, but is as native and as spontaneous as anything heard in modern opera. The judgment of the crowd surely has justification.

Last night's cast has been heard many times before. Mrs. Rappold was the Lenora, Mrs. Homer the Azucena, Mr. Slezak the Manrico, and Mr. Amato the di Luna. All the singers were in good voice and all sang out loudly. Mr. Sturani conducted with spirit.

CLARK STAYS ON COMMISSION.

Washington, Nov. 27.—President Taft announced to-day that he would reappoint Edgar E. Clark, of Cedar Rapids, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission for a seven-year term, beginning January 1, 1913. Commissioner Clark was appointed late in January, 1906, by President Roosevelt after he had served as a member of the anthracite coal strike commission. He was formerly president of the Order of Railway Conductors of America.

JOHN P. JONES DEAD.

Ex-Senator from Nevada Succumbs After Long Illness.

[By Cable to The Tribune.] Los Angeles, Nov. 27.—Ex-United States Senator John Percival Jones, of Nevada, died here to-night after a long illness.

John P. Jones was born in Herefordshire, England, January 27, 1829. He was elected to the United States while an infant by his parents, who went to Cleveland, where he was educated in the public schools. When the gold excitement started in California Mr. Jones went to that state and engaged in mining. He took an active part in politics, and was elected to the California Senate, in which he served from 1863 to 1867.

Mr. Jones removed to Nevada in 1867 and became prominent in the development of the mining industry there. He was elected to the United States Senate as a Republican in 1871, and was re-elected for successive terms until he had served twenty years. He was especially active in the free silver agitation in the later years of his Senatorial life, and finally left the Republican party on the silver issue. When that question ceased to be a political issue he rejoined the party.

JOHN MADDEN.

John Madden, a well known resident of Brooklyn, died Tuesday at his home, No. 89 Quincy street. He was born in New York City eighty-four years ago and succeeded to his father's business in Fulton Market. When he retired he became the first surveyor of Prospect Park. For a few years he made his home at Ridge-wood, N. J.

PROFESSOR DANIEL BONBRIGHT.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Daniel Bonbright, formerly acting president of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., died today at Dayton, Ohio, from a complication of diseases. Dr. Bonbright was eighty-one years old and had been connected with the university since 1856, when he was appointed professor of Latin literature and language. He was dean of the College of Liberal Arts from 1889 to 1892. He leaves a wife and two children.

Taft AT RAYNER'S BIER

Cabinet, Congress, Judges and Diplomats among Mourners.

Washington, Nov. 27.—President Taft, representatives of the diplomatic corps, members of the Cabinet, the United States Supreme Court, members of both houses of Congress, Government officials attended the funeral here to-day of Senator Isidor Rayner, of both houses of the United States Senate, delivered the funeral sermon at the house, where the principal services were held. He was assisted by the Rev. Charles Wood, of the Church of the Covenant. Brief ceremonies were conducted at the grave in Rock Creek cemetery. Members of the Senate and House were honorary pallbearers.

DANCE AT ARDSLEY CLUB

More than Hundred at Annual Autumn Affair.

The annual autumn dance at the Ardsley Club broke up at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The decorations were simple and American and club flags, and these, with the costumes worn by the women, made a beautiful scene. The club had arranged for one hundred guests, but more than that number were at the dance.

DIX ON ALBANY ENTRANCES.

Albany, Nov. 27.—Governor Dix addressed the City Plan Association of Albany to-day. He spoke on "Entrances to Albany."

MRS. ARTHUR HEARN IS NOW SENORA DA GAMA

Daughter-in-Law of George A. Hearn Bride of Brazilian Ambassador.

CEREMONY IS A DOUBLE ONE

Mayor Gaynor and Percy Stickney Grant Both Officiate at Wedding in Judge Gary's House.

Quietly and in the presence of only a few friends Señora Domicio da Gama, Brazilian Ambassador to the United States, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bell Hearn, widow of Arthur H. Hearn, son of George A. Hearn, the founder of the Hearn stores, were married last night at the new house of Judge Elbert H. Gary, No. 526 Fifth avenue.

There was a double ceremony, Mayor Gaynor performing the civil ceremony, as required by the laws of Brazil, while Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, pastor of the Church of the Ascension, performed the religious ceremony.

Besides the contracting and officiating parties and the host there were present at this, the first big international marriage of the season, Mrs. William J. Gaynor, Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett Moore, District Attorney Charles S. Whitman and Mrs. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. John Flieger, two secretaries of the Brazilian embassy and two sons of Mrs. Hearn by her former marriage.

After the service, which was at 7 o'clock, a wedding supper was served in the big dining room.

It was not until yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Hearn, accompanied by her son Arthur, Señora da Gama and Judge Gary, left the Plaza, where Mrs. Hearn has been living, and drove to the City Hall in a limousine to obtain a marriage license, that society knew for a certainty that the rumor that had been current for some weeks past was true. Although the invitations to the wedding were sent out to the favored few weeks ago, and though several of them were asked if it were true that Mrs. Hearn and Señora da Gama were to be married, all preserved the most discreet silence. And Mrs. Hearn and Señora da Gama refused to admit the possibility of a marriage until the last moment.

When the little party reached the City Hall they found a large crowd waiting to catch a glimpse of them, as word quickly spread that the couple would appear at Chief Clerk Scully's office some time after noon. Mrs. Hearn, who is forty-two years old, but looks many years younger, was dressed in a dark tailor-made suit, patent leather ties with light rhinestone buckles, and a black hat with ostrich plumes. Señora da Gama, wearing a silk hat and braided outway coat, with the air of an ambassador, smiled a little as he passed through the waiting crowd to the private office of the chief clerk, where the license was quickly issued. He gave his age as fifty, but his years also reflected on him.

By the time the party were ready to leave the City Hall they found the crowd had grown to huge proportions, and among them were several newspaper photographers, who caused Mrs. Hearn both annoyance and amusement. Señora da Gama's eyes twinkled merrily at times as he stood in Chief Scully's office, hoping the crowd would tire.

At last, despairing of escaping the curious, Mrs. Hearn, Señora da Gama and Judge Gary made their way through the crowd to the limousine. Mrs. Hearn huffed her veil tightly drawn around her face, while her son held a big black muff before her features to prevent the photographers from taking her photograph.

The couple will make their home in Washington, where the bride will be known as Señora Elizabeth Bell da Gama.

DANCE FOR HUNTING SET

Daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele Honored.

Westbury, Long Island, Nov. 27.—The country place of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele in the Wheatley Hills section was the scene to-night of a dinner and dance in honor of Miss Nancy and Miss Katherine Steele.

Arrangements had been made to entertain one of the largest crowds ever assembled in the Meadow Brook hunting set. The many country places on Long Island sent each its quota of guests, and a large number of socially prominent people from Manhattan came here in motors.

In the afternoon the Misses Steele were the hostesses at a tea at which there was a large gathering of the younger set. They were assisted by the Countess Eleanor de Greze, Miss Mary Watson, Miss Sally Mackay, Miss Josephine Nicoll and Miss L. L. Plattman.

Among those invited to the dinner and dance were Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Moran, Mr. and Mrs. De Lancey K. Jay, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Miss Celeste Hitchcock, Miss Emily Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mortimer, Miss Mortimer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray Griswold, the Misses Canfield, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Grace, W. Russell Grace, James A. Rawlins, Elliott C. Cowden, Harvey S. Lacey, Miss Elise Ladew, Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Cravath, W. Burling Cocks, Miss Clair Bird, Mrs. Oliver W. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davis, J. B. Hadden, Miss Frances Hadden, Henry S. Page, Miss Dorcas Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Payne Stude, Mrs. Emily Lodenberg, Miss Eugenia Mae Lodenberg, James Parks, Miss Ethel Parks, William C. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson Webb, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Phipps, Howard Phipps, Miss Margaret Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Zabriskie Gray, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. M. Earle, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Burden, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Egerton Winthrop, Bronson Winthrop, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. W. Baltazzi and Douglas Campbell.

MONEY FOR NEW SCHOOLS

Mitchel Promises Provision for Possibly $5,000,000.

President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen, on behalf of the corporate stock budget committee of the Board of Estimate, announced yesterday that within two weeks they would have a preliminary report in so far as the public schools were concerned.

Mr. Mitchel said they were aware that new schools were badly needed and that they would soon have ready for presentation a resolution providing for $5,000,000, $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 for that purpose.

DAILY PAINTINGS SOLD

Portraits of Stage Folk Go at Auction.

A sprinkling of actors, actresses, playwrights and managers, some of whom have grown gray in service before and behind the footlights, attended, with others, the sale at auction yesterday, in the Anderson Galleries, Madison avenue at 40th street, of the Augustin Daly collection of portraits of eminent men and women of the stage. The sale was by order of Klaw & Erlanger.

The collection included not only portraits of members of the company which Mr. Daly kept together so many years, among them Miss Ada Rohan, Miss Fanny Davenport, Miss Dreher, Miss Edith Kinsdon, Mrs. John Gilbert, John Drew, Charles Fisher and James Lewis, but also many others conspicuous in the earlier history of the stage, such as "Kitty" Clive, Neil Gwynne, Cooke, Wallack, Booth, Forrest, Salvini, Sothorn Mrs. Scott Siddons, Garrick, Cooke, Wallack, Booth, Forrest, Salvini, Sothorn Mrs. Mame Jansuech, Adelaide Neilson and Charlotte Cushman.

A bust painted portrait of David Garrick, painted in oil by Sir Joshua Reynolds, brought $1,000, the highest price of the sale. It was knocked down to George D. Smith at that figure, after some spirited bidding. He also gave $115 for a portrait in oil of Pog Woffington, William Sampson and Charles H. Wells, bought for the Players a pastel portrait of James Lewis, signed "See and Epler, 1836." For two Japanese paintings on silk J. W. Mayer gave $75. A mahogany spinet, decorated with satin wood inlays and painted floral devices, was sold to A. Morton for $55.

Those present at the sale included George Broadhurst, Miss Hattie Russell, William Sampson, Guy Nichols, Charles P. Wells, Everett Jansen Wendell and Meyer Livingston, representing Klaw & Erlanger.

ADEE REACHES 70 YEARS

Second Assistant Secretary of State Long in Service.

[From The Tribune Bureau.] Washington, Nov. 27.—Alvey A. Ade, Second Assistant Secretary of State, rounded out threescore and ten years to-day, and was the recipient of congratulations from numerous friends, several sending floral tributes as a mark of their esteem.

Mr. Ade has had the distinction of serving as Second Assistant Secretary of State for twenty-six years, six years longer than his predecessor, William Hunter, held the office. In fact, the two men are the only persons who have been second assistant secretaries. Because of his long and efficient service Mr. Ade is looked on as probably the most valuable officer in the department in point of intimate familiarity with diplomatic affairs.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "The Sun Doggers," Lew Fields's musical extravaganza, which was scheduled for to-night, has been postponed again until Saturday night.

"The Indiscretion of Truth," J. Hartley Manners' new play, will have its first New York production on Tuesday evening, December 3, at the Harris Theatre. Instead of at Weber's, as heretofore announced. The play will succeed Augustus Thomas's "Mere Man," which closes its engagement at the Harris Saturday night.

"Hindie Wakes" is announced for production at the Maxine Elliott Theatre on Monday night, December 9, following "Ready Money." The play is by Stanley Houghton and will be presented by an all-English company under the management of William A. Brady.

Members of "The Lady of the Slipper" company will attend a Thanksgiving dinner at the Astor Hotel following the matinee to-day.

Harry Lauder will begin his fifth American tour under the management of William Morris on Monday, December 23, at some theatre in New York yet to be selected. He will appear in this city one week only, after which he will tour for nine weeks.

"The Good Little Devil," a fairy play written by Mrs. Edmund Rostand, wife of the author of "Chanteclair," and M. Rostand, her son, will be the offering of David Belasco at the Belasco Theatre following the close of Frances Starr's season there in "The Case of Becky." The first performance will be given on Christmas night.

Mme. T. the masked soprano, who made her vaudeville debut on Monday at Proctor's 34th Avenue Theatre, will continue to appear there during the coming week.

"The Merry Countess" company will celebrate the closing days of its engagement at the Casino Theatre by holding an ice carnival at the St. Nicholas Skating Rink. The date selected for the fête is Sunday evening, December 2. Only members of the company and invited guests will be present.

Ethel Anorita Kelley, the dancer, who has been a member of the "Winsome Widow" company, will join the "Ziegfeld Follies" at the Moulin Rouge on Monday, December 3.

"The Theatre, an Educational Ideal," will be the subject of a talk by Frank Lee Short before the Ohio Women's Club at the Waldorf-Astoria to-morrow afternoon.

Rehearsals for "Somewhere Else," the new Avery Hopwood-Gustav Luder's musical comedy which will be produced during Christmas week, are under way under the direction of Henry W. Savage. The company engaged includes Taylor Holmes, Mrs. Stuart Robinson, Charles Everett Wright, Cecil Cunningham and Franklin Farnum.

"The High Road," in which Mrs. Fiske is appearing at the Hudson Theatre, will remain there until after the holidays, following arrangements completed yesterday to cancel a portion of the road tour.

Fifty child actors appeared before Hugh Ford, producing director of the new Children's Theatre, on top of the Century.

Annie Russell and her Old English Comedy Company will appear in a musical pantomime as the fourth production of the company's season. "The Garden of Funguella," by Kendall Banning, with music by Harvey Worthington Loomis, has been selected as the offering, beginning Monday, January 6.

"EVA" SEEN IN ATLANTIC CITY.

Atlantic City, Nov. 27.—"Eva," the music drama with book by Glen MacDonough from the German of Willner and Bodansky and music by Franz Lehár, received its first American production here to-night at the Apollo Theatre. The cast included Sallie Fisher in the title role, Walter Percival, T. J. McGrane, Tom Waters, John Daly Murphy and Wallace McCutcheon, Jr. Hugo Reinsefeld, formerly first violinist of the Manhattan Opera House, New York, conducted the orchestra. The opera will soon be seen in New York.

WORK AIDS WEAK LINGS

"Rest Cure" of Tuberculosis Carried Too Far, Says Dr. Biggs

'MAKES HEALTHY LOAFERS'

Unoccupied Patients Are Discontented When Compelled to Earn a Livelihood.

Declaring in his belief that the treatment of tuberculosis by long continued rest has been carried to too great lengths, Dr. Herman M. Biggs, general medical officer of the Department of Health, in a report on the work of the municipal tuberculosis sanatorium at Otisville, N. Y., says that the patients in that institution who are able to do so are required to make themselves useful.

"The Otisville plant," says Dr. Biggs, "is self-sustained, producing to a large extent its own milk from a model dairy, fresh vegetables and other farm products and its ice. It supplies its own water, disposes of its sewage and has its own electric plant."

"The plan of treatment which indicates a belief in the necessity of much rest, Dr. Biggs contends, fosters the life of complete idleness, that the patients are often unhappy and discontented when compelled to return to work to earn their livelihood.

"They expect their families or the community to support them in idleness for the remainder of their lives," says Dr. Biggs. "In other words, a working tuberculosis patient is converted into a fairly healthy loafer."

"The 'work cure' and not the 'rest cure' is adhered to at Otisville. In describing the method Dr. Biggs says:

Every patient admitted to the Otisville sanatorium is expected to do a certain amount of useful work. On admission every patient undergoes a rest treatment of some sixteen to twenty-one days, during which time careful watch is kept of the temperature, pulse and reaction toward exercise. If the patient's range of temperature is abnormal, or his general condition is unsatisfactory, he may be transferred to the infirmary or to the "sub-standard pavilion." If, however, his general condition is satisfactory and his temperature is normal he begins on the eighth day of his stay to take a measured walk twice a day, under the direct supervision of a captain of the walking squad." Depending upon his tolerance for this form of exercise, the length and also the time of the walk are gradually increased until finally the patient walks for one hour twice a day. At the end of this time, which is usually about two or three weeks after admission, he is transferred to the sanatorium proper, and assigned to work in proportion to his physical condition.

The Otisville sanatorium was opened in July, 1906, with six patients. It now has more than 50. It is hoped that it will accommodate in the near future some 1,500 patients.

Dr. Biggs says it is to be noted that there has been no death in the institution since it was opened from acute respiratory disease or from any other acute disease.

The success attending the efforts of the health authorities, Dr. Biggs declares, has demonstrated the correctness of the attitude adopted by the Board of Health.

LANCE POISONS SURGEON

Dr. J. Bion Bogart in Serious Condition from Slight Cut.

Dr. J. Bion Bogart, of No. 45 Clinton street, Brooklyn, is seriously ill from a slight poisoning in the care of his brother, Dr. Arthur H. Bogart. His left arm is affected.
